Vet killed in collision

Viet Nam War veteran Robert John Johnson, 34, was to be buried Thursday (Sept. 20) in New Crown Cemetery following rites at Stuart Mortuary.

ROBERT JOHN JOHNSON

Of five persons, Johnson was the only one fatally injured during a two-car collision around 2:30 a.m. Sunday at 11th and Delaware. Police say he was a passenger in a car that ran a red light and rammed into another vehicle.

Johnson, according to police reports, was riding in a 1970 green Chevrolet Impala traveling north on Delaware, driven by James Smith, 33. Smith apparently ignored a red light, causing the mishap.

The driver is listed in serious condition at Methodist Hospital suffering from internal injuries.

Operating the other car was Mrs. Shirley K. Zink, 30, 1458 Grube. She's still a patient at Methodist, regarded as fair.

Also injured in Smith's car were Steven Johnson, 17, 3177

E. 42nd, and Dwayne Yates, 17, 3055 Baltimore, both treated and released.

Johnson served in the Army beginning in 1965 and was a fulltime Indiana-Purdue University, Indianapolis student. He belonged to the Free Church of God and was a Crispus Attucks High School graduate.

In recent years, he had been converted to the Muslim Religion and adopted the name Muhammad Abdul Rahman.

Survivors include his mother, Mrs. Mary Catherine Johnson; a brother, Willard Terry Johnson; five sisters, Carolyn Ann Thomas, Julia Ann Thompson, Ethel Marie O'Conner, Linda Kay Williams and Lisa Sue O'Conner, and two sons, Robert John Jr. and Steven Eugene Johnson.

Decent housing is NAACP focus

The Indianapolis Chapter of the NAACP's Housing Committee will hold the first community housing meeting Wednesday, September 24, 1979, at Blakburn Terrace Apartments, 30th St. and Baltimore at 7:00 p.m.

The NAACP housing committee will hold a series of meetings throughout Marion County over the next 12 months. It will attempt to focus on housing problems that affect all citizens of the community.

The meetings are designed to exchange information on current housing problems and to seek ways to solve them collectively. Areas of concern are: Public housing, community block grant funds, illegal real estate sales practices, neighborhood blight and neighborhood stabilization.

In 1968, all NAACP housing committees were directed to aggressively promote fair housing opportunities, encourage the filing of complaints and lawsuits, and identify patterns of widespread practices of racial discrimination in housing.

The committee will be working with the Marion County Human Rights Commission, Indiana State Civil Rights Commission, HUD and Neighborhood Organizations to solve housing discrimination in Marion County.

The public is invited to attend this important meeting.

Black cadet captain scores 'first' at military

One hundred and two years since the first black cadet graduated from the U.S. Military Academy, the Corps of Cadets will, for the first time, be led by a black cadet.

Cadet Vincent K. Brooks, son of an Army general from Ft. Lee, Virginia, has been named first captain and brigade commander of the 4338-strong corps.

In another first at West Point, two of Brooks' women classmates from the class of 1980 were named to the permanent staff of cadet captains for the 1979-80 academic year.

She's still popular--

Jordan on Supreme Court?

Though absent from political life two years, Barbara Jordan is still a black woman with amazing clout.

Only this week she led a nationwide poll conducted by Redbook Magazine asking which woman they would like to see the first female appointed to the Supreme Court.

Stepping down after serving four terms as a Congressional representative from Texas, Ms. Jordan said in 1977 after nixing a fourth term try: "My single, most greatest accomplishment is representing hundreds, thousands, of heretofore nameless, voiceless people (from her mostly black Fourth Ward in Houston). I consider that the greatest, best accomplishment."

Observers would differ. Who can forget her resounding speech nominating the somewhat little known James Carter as the Presidential candidate at the 1976 Democratic Convention in New York?

Said Vito Marzullo, the powerbroker of the 25th Ward, "she made the most intelligent speech I've heard in a long time. I think she is fantastic."

Today, she's resigned to a Texas instructional post, but this 40ish lady can be remembered as the first black state senator in Texas since 1882. She twice ran unsuccessfully for the House of Representatives before winning.

Her civil rights record in

the cadets. Brooks plans to do this by building the esprit, the Corps during the football season. "If we have a good season or not, the football season seems to be the unifying factor," he said Brooks plans on following his father's footsteps and making the Army his career. He would like to be a rifle platoon leader in the infantry upon pinning on his second lieutenant bars next May. Why infantry? He said, "My understanding is that infantry is a good branch because of the relations you have with people and it is a good springboard for other services."

The new first captain credits his brother, who was a regimental commander last year at West Point, and his father, for influencing his decision to come to West Point. It was Gen. Brooks' birthday when the young Brooks called him with the news of being selected brigade commander.

Brooks is quick to downplay the fact that he is the first black captain of the Corps of Cadets and he points out that the military academy will not select a person for such a position because of color.

Henry O. Flipper, class of 1877, was the first black to graduate from West Point. He was not, however, the first black to be admitted into West Point. Three preceded Flipper, but were separated as many of their classmates were, because of deficiencies in math, philosophy and French.

Since Flipper, over 330 blacks have graduated from the military academy and there are over 219 currently enrolled.

While Brooks will graduate no higher than his classmates—all cadets are commissioned second lieutenants—a study reported in 1970 showed 67.5 percent of those first captains who were eligible went on to make general. The same study showed that 92 percent made the service a career, and 11 percent were Rhodes scholars.

IPS-IEA contract talks moves toward settlement

Victim found strangled in rear of tavern

Police homicides Wednesday issued a plea for public assistance in their search for the killer or killers of a 50-year-old man who was found early Sunday morning strangled to death behind a near-Northside tavern.

Police identified the victim Herschell [Hairy Head] Compton Jr., who lived at 310 W. New York. Police Det. John Layton said that an autopsy performed Monday at Wishard Memorial Hospital revealed that had died as the result of strangulation and a severe head wound that fractured his skull.

According to Det. Layton, Compton's body was discovered at about 3:30 a.m. Sunday by Patrolman Rodney D. White while he was checking the rear of the tavern—a favorite spot for open-air crap games.

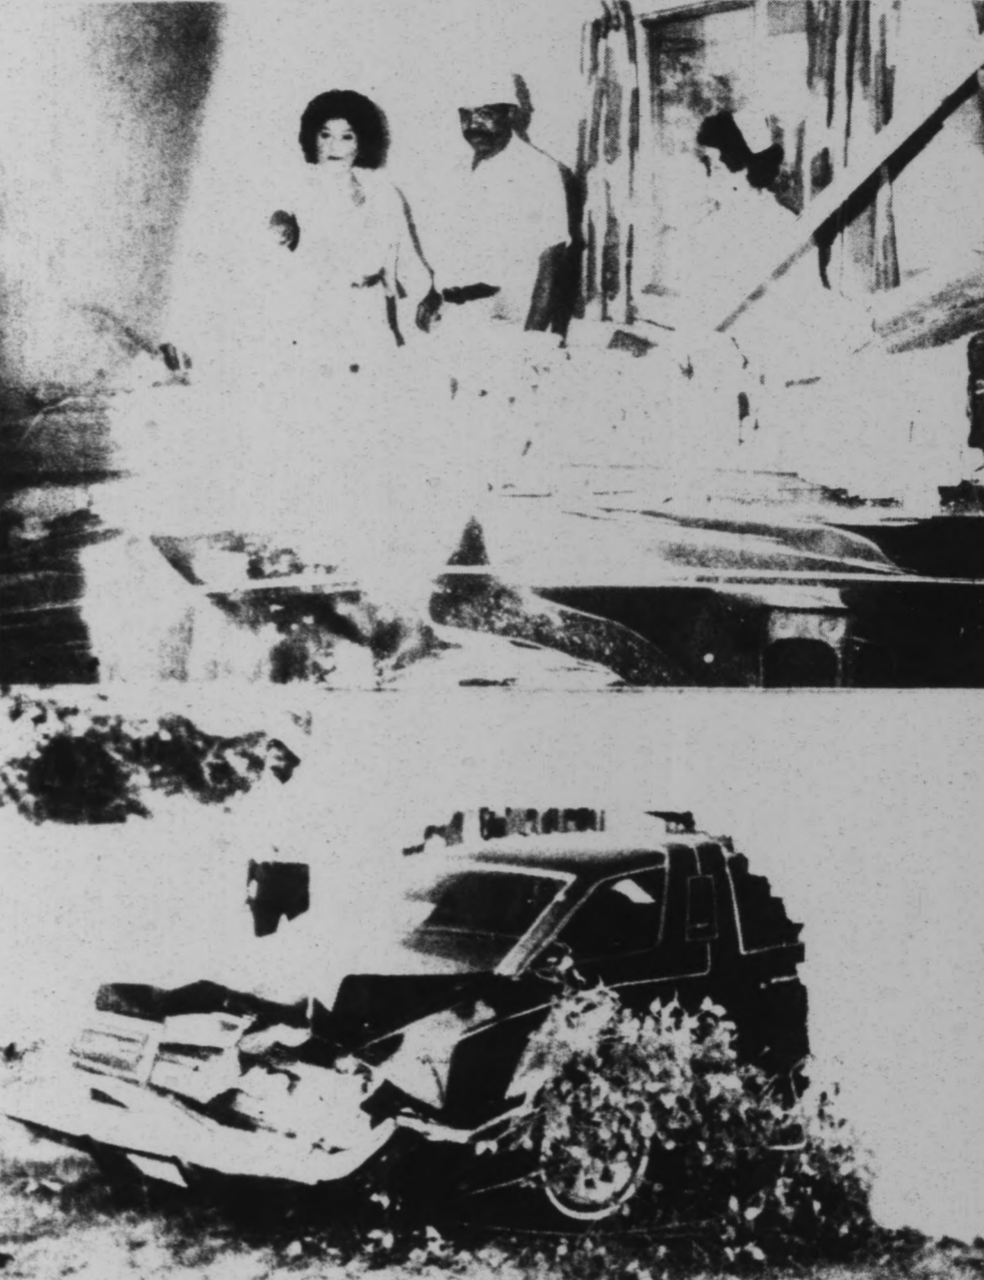

Layton said that Compton had no money, wallet identification on his person when the body was found, leading him to believe that robbery may have been the motive for the slaying.

Layton also said that the autopsy revealed the Compton had a blood alcohol level of 3.04 percent "indicating that he was probably pretty well intoxicated at the time of the slaying" which is believed to have occurred shortly before the body was found.

Compton was found lying in a pool of blood, and Layton recalled, "he couldn't have been dead long because the body was still warm when I arrived at the scene and blood was still dripping from the gaping wound in his head."

Layton said that the officer who found the body said that there was no one around when he arrived on the scene and, so far, "I haven't been able to locate anyone who will even admit to having seen the victim near the tavern."

Layton asks that anyone who may have any information concerning the slaying to contact him at 633-7950. He added that

UNEXPECTED STOP: Three patients at Sarah's Nursing Home, 3200 block of North Sherman, narrowly escaped death Tuesday morning when a car plowed into the building after being rammed from the rear by another vehicle. One of them, Mrs. Irene Langford, was rushed to a hospital after suffering a possible stroke when her bed was struck. The other two residents in the same room at the time, Pinky Douglas and Ruth Murphy, were both "badly shaken" but apparently not seriously injured. According to reports, Florence Boyd, 3022 N. Olney driving a 1979 Ford rental while her car was being repaired, was making a left turn onto 32nd when a 1975 Olds operated by Jeffe Lee, 3602 Emerson, hit her in the rear and Mrs. Boyd's car went out of control into the nursing home. Although Lee claims Mrs. Boyd did not signal, there were no arrests. In the top photo, [from left] Mrs. Dorothy Morrison, home administrator, an unidentified spectator and Mrs. Wilma L. Roberts, registered nurse, survey some of the damage. The other picture shows the car at its unscheduled stop. [Photo by Leonard T. Clark Sr.]

Teachers balk prompts Judge of delay fines

Some 1,000-plus Indianapolis School teachers continued their job action holdout for a new contract, having refused this week to report to classroom assignments—defying an edict by Marion County Circuit Court Judge Frank Huse Jr.

This week Huse began enforcing his order that strike activities stop and teachers report back to classes by imposing fines against any teacher absent from class. Fines were also imposed on the teacher's bargaining organization, the Indianapolis Education Association, for each day teachers refused to return to work.

Huse did, however, order a stop of the payments Wednesday, which called for fines against teachers absent from class of $25 per day. IEA was ordered to pay $25 also per day for each teacher which had not reported to class.

Huse issued his back to the classroom order September 12 then closed schools for two days, stating the days would allow "preparation sessions" for teachers to return to class this week.

IPS officials said about 2,250—or 67 percent of their 3,400 regularly assigned teachers actually reported to classes those days. Some 1,400 teachers did not report for work--

Early end of strike is urged

The Indianapolis Urban League came out last week favoring an early settlement of the teachers' strike.

A statement released by William E. Marshall, Urban League Board chairman, and Sam H. Jones, president, read: "The Indianapolis Urban League with its continued concern for quality education urges the Board of School Commissioners of the Indianapolis Public Schools and the Indianapolis Education Association to reach the earliest possible settlement to their dispute."

"With all the challenges confronting our schools today, we can ill afford to see the struggle we have witnessed this week prolonged. The needs of our students are too great. Both sides must be willing to compromise to avert any further delay in the education process. During their negotiations, both sides must set as their highest priority the needs of the students."

Girl, 15, disappears

Parents of a teenager missing since September 13 are turning to the public in search of information concerning their daughter's whereabouts.

Mr. and Mrs. Odell Lewis are offering a cash reward for anyone with details on where 15-year-old Priscilla Lewis can be located.

According to the father, Priscilla evidently slipped out of their home at 2033 N. Rochester unnoticed sometime around 8 p.m. Anyone thinking he or she has any important information should call the Lewis home, 632-7613.

The missing girl is described as being between 5'1" and "5'2" tall and weighing between 105-115 lbs. There's no description of what she was wearing since neither the parents nor their other children actually saw her leave.

Mr. Lewis said they were under the opinion Priscilla was using a dryer, "but I guess she was actually packing her clothes." He added there had been no family friction, and she was an "average" student at Northwest High School, having recently transferred from Crispus Attucks.

Police were notified of her disappearance Monday.

3 blacks hurt in Boston when whites ambush school bus

BOSTON—

White teenagers hurling stones and large metal bolts ambushed three school buses Tuesday near South Boston High School, and three black children were injured, the police said.

School officials attributed the outburst, the first major racial incident of the new school year, to tensions resulting from a fight in the cafeteria and a scuffle at an elementary school.

After a meeting with school administrators, the police said they would station patrolmen outside the school and increase their escorts of buses through the neighborhood.

"This program will continue to play an important role in our future efforts to revitalize our neighborhoods, and I hope to be able to announce details of a local homesteading program to complement the existing program in the near future," the Mayor added.

Third Annual OIC Conference

"The Lord is My Shepard, I Shall Not Want," was the opening song of Indiana's OIC State Conference Wednesday, September 18. In conclusion Mr. Mozel Sanders returned to the podium and revealed to NAACP members and guests that the "training program was wrapped around serving poor people," and that it's purpose is to "reach down into the gutter and help people."

Sanders introduced a young trainee, Kay Barlow, who supported his statements. "OIC is about helping others; everyone needs someone." The spirit was high and awards were given. Mozel Sanders was one of the recipients.

NAACP members clapped and rose to their feet as Dr. Benjamin Hooks presented Mozel Sanders with a plaque.

Following the ceremony, Dr. Hooks addressed the banquet with the topic, "If the trumpet gives forth an uncertain sound then who would prepare for the battle?" Hooks stated that examples of clear sounds have already been recorded in our country's history by great leaders. And today we must recall that history and practice what we preach. "This country needs good leadership. There is no way a leader can take all of the advice given to him," however, that leader "can give a clear leadership." Today as yesterday the trumpet must "blow for freedom." Patrick Henry said, "Give me liberty or give me death," another great said; "It's the times that try men's souls." In 1776 Thomas Jefferson said, "We hold these truths to be self evident, that all men are created equal. That they are endowed by their creator with certain inalienable

MRS. WILLA R. DONALDSON

Final rites for Mrs. Willa Resnover-Donaldson, former Indianapolis resident, were conducted September 18 at Jackson Funeral Home, Carbondale, Illinois. She died September 11 in Carbondale's Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Donaldson, 80, was a retired school teacher and art consultant for a number of years in Cairo, Ill. After her marriage to William Donaldson, who preceded her death, she devoted her energies to their funeral homes at Mount Cairo and Carbondale.

eulogy was performed by the Reverend Robert Buchanan, who was assisted by the Reverend U.P. Penn of Carbondale.

Mr. J. C. Penn, a life time friend of Mrs. Donaldson's, and retired school principal, reflected on her many contributions in a lengthy and distinguished education career, while praising her unique artistic expressions.

Mrs. Donaldson was born March 21, 1899 in Nashville, Tenn. She moved to Indianapolis as an infant—years later graduating from Frederick Douglass Elementary School. In 1912 she finished at Manual High School, and graduated from Butler University in 1920.

Black GOPers third liner is October 20

The Indiana Black Republican Council will hold the Third Annual Frederick Douglass Awards Dinner on Saturday, October 20, 1979 at the Atkinson Hotel in downtown Indianapolis.

Ms. Thomas new Society volunteer

Recorder columnist Willa Thomas has been appointed a volunteer worker for the American Bible Society, one of the world's largest distributors of the Bible and related material.

The company prints the "good book" in some 1800 worldwide languages, including scriptures for the visually handicapped and braille for the blind. Its stock also has films and filmstrips for churches' use.

Miss Thomas says in her new position she will be searching for churches interested in starting a monthly Bible club for youngsters and trying to have Bible displays at various conventions.

Since 1816, the aim of the American Bible Society has been to place at least a portion of Holy Scripture in the hands of anyone interested.

In doing so, cost has never been a consideration. Scriptures are given cheerfully to those who cannot afford to pay anything.

Temperance Union meet to mark 2 historical events

Two important historic events will be remembered when The Woman's Christian Temperance Union (WCTU) holds their 105th annual state convention September 25-27 in Marion at College Wesleyan Church.

The ladies will take time to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the election of Frances Willard as national WCTU president in Indianapolis in October, 1879, and the 50th anniversary of the placing of the Frances Willard plaque in the State House in Indianapolis in September, 1929.

Mrs. James Shelley of New Castle, marking the end of her first year as state president, will preside throughout the convention, expected to attract many members from Marion County. Other state officers participating in the convention program will be Mrs. Reuben Smith of Delphi, vice-president who will act as platform chairman; Mrs. H. Lowell Johnson of Parker City, promotion secretary; Mrs. Hubert Hillis of Michigantown, treasurer; and Mrs. John Heflin of Cambridge City, recording secretary.

Another major participant will be Mrs. Harold Riley of Indianapolis, state legislative director.

Registration will open the convention at 12:30 p.m., September 25, followed by the Pre-Convention School from 2-3 p.m. in charge of Mrs. Cleo Parris of Warren, national director of Projection Methods.

Convention proper opens at 7:30 p.m. the same day with observance of "Youth Night" with Rev. John K. Heavilin, an administrative associate in Institutional Advancement at Marion College and himself a former Youth Temperance Council youth in Marion, as guest speaker. Annual awards will be made to YTC groups from over the state.

The following day's program starts at 8:15 with morning watch followed by the Remembrance Service when the memorial candle will be lighted to burn throughout the convention.

At 11 a.m., Professor Laura S. Emerson of Marion, professor of speech, emeritus, Marion College, will speak on "To Serve the Present Age." At 1 p.m. will be the White Ribbon Recruit service, a dedication for small.

Following this will be a women's speech medal contest, and at 6, there'll be the annual convention dinner.

President's Night activity starts at 7:30 that night and a major highlight will be Mrs. Shelley's first annual address on "Distorted Values." She'll be honored at a reception later.

Officers election highlight the final day.

Taylor is nominated for award

Henry Taylor, industrious director of the Indianapolis Business Development Foundation, has been named the city's nominee for the Black Enterprise Magazine 1979 annual achievement award in the category of service.

SEWER CLEANING

"WE GET YOUR SEWER ABSOLUTELY CLEAN"

Get more than your 8¢ worth.

It costs about 8¢ to dry an average load of clothes in an electric dryer. But, here are a few easy things you can do to make your dryer deliver above-average performance... and save you money.

Venting: To operate most efficiently, your dryer must have a vent to the outdoors at least 4" in diameter, preferably smooth on the inside so that it won't catch lint.

Lint Screen: Clean after each load. Accumulated lint slows flow of air and clothes take longer to dry.

Overdrying: Clothes removed while slightly damp are easier to iron and drying cycle is shortened. "Baking" clothes not only wastes electricity but weakens fibers, making clothes wear out sooner.

Full Loads: You'll dry the most clothes for the least money if each full load is sorted into items that have a similar drying time.

We have plenty of electric power for you to use. But, we want you to get the most out of every cent you spend for it. If you'd like a whole bookful of ways to get more out of your electric service for less, write for a free copy of "First Aid For Your Electric Bills" from Indianapolis Power & Light Company, Dept. CR, P.O. Box 9-B, Indianapolis, IN 46206.

MS. SHERRY E. SUGGS

A former Indianapolis resident, Ms. Sherry E. Suggs, has been assigned to the USAID Mission in Rabat, Morocco, North Africa. USAID, (United States Agency for International Development) is the bureau of the U.S. Department of State which provides financial aid and technical assistance to developing third world countries.

Ms. Suggs is the Program Officer for the Office of Human Resources and is currently involved with management and administration of five projects. Two of those projects are designed specifically to improve the economic opportunities for women in Morocco.

In one project, AID will provide contract advisors and training to develop non formal education programs for poor women and girls in some 330 women development centers now run throughout Morocco by the Ministry of Youth and Sports.

In a second project, AID, with the help of the Ministry of Labor's vocational training program will establish two pilot centers for young women at Fes and Casablanca, two of Morocco's largest cities.

Mrs. Solomon back from Synod talks

Fresh from Chicago and all excited about a workshop she attended there is the lovely Mrs. Yvonne C. Solomon, who took part in the Synod's Candidates' Committee Workshop for candidates, their spouses and members of the Candidates' Committee of the seven Presbyteries.

As a member of The Candidates' Committee of The Whitewater Valley, Mrs. Solomon attended a workshop for candidates' committee members, candidates and spouses. The meeting was at the most beautiful St. Francis Retreat House at Oakbrook, Mayslake, Ill., and was offered at no expense.

The most outstanding annual event which many look forward to is the "Evening Out" in Chicago, Ill., at The Parthenon, a Greek restaurant, widely known for its fine food.

The party gave both candidates and candidates' committee members a pleasant evening together and a time to dine and unwind. A small contribution helped to cover the additional expense for the special occasion.

Some of the exceptional leadership of this year's workshop was by Dr. Richard Auspiger.

Dr. Auspiger is the director of Pastoral Counseling and Research for the Virginia Institute of Pastoral Care. He completed his Ph.D. in Pastoral Counseling from Northwestern University and has done consulting work with candidates of Hanover Presbytery (PCUS) and is familiar with Presbyterian candidate procedure.

Dr. Robert Sackman is the executive presbyter of Ohio Valley, and he recently completed his Doctor of Ministry Degree from McCormick Seminary with a study on the Pastoral Nominating Committee's effectiveness in calling a pastor. Dr. Sackman lead the dossier writing workshop. Rev. Sesa Johnson, pastor of

First Presbyterian Church in Knoxville, Ill. He is a graduate of McCormick Seminary and has served on a variety of presbytery and synod task forces. Ms. Johnson met with women seminarians at the workshop.

Rev. Jill Senior, associate executive for Vocation and Leadership Development for the Synod of Lincoln Trails, is responsible for candidates' ministerial relations and women's concerns at the Synod office. Rev. Jill Senior lead the afternoon session with clergy spouses and assisted Dr. Sackman in the candidates' workshop.

The candidates' committee met with the candidates formally and informally. We enjoyed the fellowship. The question and answer meeting proved very interesting. We shared the concerns of their seminary experiences.

The body gave a standing ovation at the close of the meeting to Jim Senior, Bill Salzman and Tom Heinlein were also on the planning committee.

Members attending from Candidates' Committee of Whitewater Valley Presbytery were:

Dr. Edgar Towne, Chairperson of Candidates' Committee, Mr. Robert Evans and Spouse, Mrs. Robert Evans, Mrs. Juan C. Solomon, Mrs. Lora Jane Cullen, Mr. George Cullen (Spouse).

Candidates were: Ms. Karen Blomberg, Princeton, Mr. Dennis Kitterman, Princeton, Mrs. Sally Wilkin, Princeton, Princeton Theological Seminary and Spouse, Mr. John Gilvert, Princeton.

new queen and her court will be conducted at 8 p.m., Friday, October 12, during a presentation of the Variety Show in Emens Auditorium.

Homecoming is Saturday, October 13.

51 ways to cook chicken

Chicken scores in 1979 cooking contest

Mary Menard, 38, is impressed enough by Mary Menard's savory "Chicken San Joaquin" in the National Chicken Cooking Contest held in Charleston, S.C. The only black finalist, Mrs. Menard represented the state of Louisiana.

CHARLESTON, S.C.

Versatility is the key word for the ways chicken was used in the 1979 National Chicken Cooking Contest. The recipes chosen to represent each of the 50 states plus the District of Columbia used chicken in almost every way imaginable. Twenty-two of this year's entries used the entire chicken, cut in parts; followed by 16 recipes using chicken breasts only. Compared to last year, there was an increase in the cut up recipes and a decrease in the whole chicken breast.

Chicken thighs came next, with five recipes using this popular dark piece of chicken meat. Three of the state dishes were prepared using a whole chicken, and two recipes featured chicken halves. Two of the recipes called for a combination of chicken breasts and thighs. Only one recipe called for drumsticks - but this was an increase from the 1978 cook off.

Spices were used in the 51 recipes a total of 64 times; not counting salt and pepper. Twenty-three different spices were used; with paprika being the most popular - ten times. The next most popular spice was ginger which was included in six recipes. The next three spices were all used five times and these were rosemary, cloves and thyme. The next most popular spices were nutmeg, basil, oregano, curry powder and poultry seasoning all being used a total of three times each.

Sage, tarragon, caraway seeds, chili powder and bay leaves were all used in two of the state entries. Other spices that were used at least once include mace, marjoram, cinnamon, oregano, celery seeds, sesame seeds, dill weed and mint leaves.

Other ingredients that were popular in the 1979 recipes include various vegetables which were used in 33 recipes, along with some type of onions being used 33 times. Fresh garlic was used in 15 recipes and seven recipes used garlic powder. Some type of seasoning sauce was used 42 times in various recipes; with soy sauce leading the group with 11 recipes calling for it. Mustard was next being used in 10 of the recipes; catsup and hot pepper sauce were both used six times each and Worcestershire Sauce was used four times.

For more information contact: Mariette Francis, 299-1750.

used in a total of five recipes. Steak sauce, barbecue sauce and horseradish were also included as ingredients.

Wine proved to be a common ingredient in 18 recipes; and two others called for beer. Eight of the chicken dishes called for some type of vinegar.

Thirteen recipes listed some type of sweetener in 1979. The most popular in 1979 was brown sugar - being used in six recipes. Some type of jelly, jam or marmalade was used a total of four times. Honey was used twice and syrup once.

Fruit juices were used in 14 recipes, plus an actual fruit was used in 13 of the entries. Some type of nuts were included in eight recipes and sour cream was called for five times; but yogurt and whipping cream were used only once.

Ethel's Cookery

by Ethel Moore

A recipe for "Curried Chicken Rolls" was selected as the best of 51 entries, and won the $10,000 top prize in the 1979 National Chicken Cooking Contest held in Charleston, S.C.

Barbara Long of Laramie, Wyoming, said she developed the recipe for her husband and a low-fat diet and knew it was a winner when "he ate it without adding ketchup, which he automatically puts on everything." She terms it a Gourmet dish that's easy enough for a week-day family dinner.

However, of special interest was the presence of Mary Menard, the only black finalist in the country-wide contest, who represented the state of Louisiana. Mary, who lives in Beaux Bridge, cooked up "Chicken San Joaquin", a dish judged excellent, even though it didn't win a prize.

Encouraged to enter the contest by her instructor at the Extension Service, Mary tried this one out on her husband, Steven and three children before sending it in. Asked how she felt about the contest, Mary said "more of us ought to enter these things, it's fun and I'll try again."

Mary's recipe and the first place winning recipe follow. Other cash awards were $4,000 for a "Gingered Pear Chicken and Walnuts", $3,000 for "Shirley's Chicken and Macaroni", $2,000 for a Chicken Mushroom Dinner and $1,000 for "Williamsburg Creole Chicken".

The annual contest, sponsored by the National Broiler Council, is the nation's oldest annual cooking competition, dating back to 1949. It's held each year in a different poultry-producing state to encourage innovating ways to serve chicken. One contestant from each state and the District of Columbia prepared their recipes in mini kitchens set up for the cookoff. Winners were selected by a panel of nationally-known food experts.

The 1980 chicken cooking contest will be held in Atlanta, Ga.

We're Building America

Chatting with the F.A.C.

By LILLIAN GOENS

The first regular meeting for the season of the Federation of Associated Clubs Inc. featured highlights from some members' vacations.

Starling James, president, was in charge. Relating information of their summer trips were Helen Pruitt, Dwight Carter, Dimple Watkins, Arliser Johnson, Blanch Lindsay, Willora Morris, Nell Bransford and Bessie Little.

Cosmo Knights annual scholarship golf tournament at South Grove Golf Course was a great success. They are one of our many affiliates.

Southside Happenings

The residents of Troy East Avenue wish they had an old fashioned protective fence. For the third time, a serious accident has happened here, one resulting in the death of six persons and twice resulting in serious injury for not heeding the warning signal. Remember: The Life you can save could be your own.

Before one accident can be investigated, another one has happened. Again, another death. Why blame anyone when the warning bell is not heeded? What can be the answer to these slaughters? Should there be gates at all railroad crossings? What then?

Care to learn how to repair your own automobile? A course in tune up, powder-puff mechanics and general auto mechanics will be offered. For more information call Manual High School.

Club affiliates, send me your club meetings and programs. You will be hearing from someone in regards to having your representatives attend the regular meetings the second Monday of each month from 7 p.m. till 9 p.m.

Mrs. Geraldine Tyler, president of Meridian Highland Association, an affiliate, reported growing success of their rejuvenation of residences in the area of 18th St. to S. Fall Creek bridge and east of Pennsylvania. They meet from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. the first Monday at FAC. All residents may join the association.

Mrs. Starling James, wife of the FAC president, is improving. Mrs. Dorothy Wilson of the civic committee is home after a month in the hospital. Leona Conley is doing nicely. Sympathy to Mrs. Genevieve Frazier who lost her husband. She is a member of the civic committee.

During the last FAC meeting, Arliser Johnson presented a program. Members and friends enjoyed the Fellowship Ensemble's selections. Hannella Tandy read "Brighten the Corner Where You Are." Mrs. Tandy was one of the many students of our president, Mr. James.

Cash prizes were won by Yvonne Ewing and Mrs. Ward. Watchword was by Willora Morris, financial secretary, and refreshments by Mary Martin. "It is when the holiday is over that we begin to enjoy it."

Committees will resume their regular meetings Monday at 7 p.m. Bingo will be played with prizes awarded.

the white, working class neighborhood.

"The group of 15 or 20 who stoned the buses were all teenagers," the deputy police superintendent, Francis J. Coleman said. "It would seem that the incident was planned and not spontaneous."

About an hour later, a school spokesman said, about 50 or 60 white youths harrassed a black parent and vandalized cars outside another South Boston school.

rights, and the pursuit of happiness.

This nation stated Hooks, "is engulfed in a tidalwave of conservatism. It's time for leaders to speak with a loud and clear tone because it is only when leadership gives a clear tone that the soldier gets ready for the battle."

Using Carter as an example, Hooks said that Carter "must come to the realization that black folks are still on the outside looking in. The poor are getting poorer." Therefore, Carter says Hooks must be called on to open the door. "Carter must be made aware that we understand what's going on and that we insist that he gets on TV, Nationwide and tell this world that we still have a long way to go. We must get together and see to it that hypocrites in the council and county seats are put out of office. In other words, 'get your house in order.'"

The "struggle has changed, we are, said Hooks, no longer concerned about riding the bus. We insist on buying the bus. OIC has proven that if you open the door folks can make it. I would suggest that what we must be concerned with getting that chance. We are saying now to America that we are on our way and ain't gonna let nobody turn us around." Hooks concluded, blacks need to be more concerned with their warriors, it's a fact that "somebody paid a price and you owe something." Many of us degrade the black preacher, but it is a fact that, "that black preacher, that black preacher, is the reason why we can say yesterday and today 'I hear music in the air, there must be a God somewhere.'"

Blacks were encouraged to obtain membership in the NAACP, support OIC, become aware of the spirit of evilness in this land and demand their inalienable rights.

Congress was impeccable and she brought nationwide viewers to chair edge with questioning during the Nixon impeachment hearings.

Ms. Jordan, in the poll, shared company with black women—Eleanor Norton Holmes, chair of the Equal Opportunity Commission; Patricia Roberts Harris, secretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and Constance Motley Baker, judge in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of New York.

Butler is cited for cost cut

Butler University has received honorable mention in the 1979 cost reduction incentive awards competition sponsored by the National Association of College and University Business Officers.

Butler saved $12,400 annually from a program by the housekeeping division of its Buildings and Grounds Department. The basis for the award was a housekeeper training program for disabled persons which Butler initiated in conjunction with two Indianapolis agencies, Goodwill Industries and Crossroads Rehabilitation Center.

Under the program, Butler handles the basic and advanced training in various housekeeping functions, with the cost the trainees' salary paid by the sponsoring organizations through grants from the Vocational Rehabilitation Administration. Upon completion of the program, the trainee is either hired by Butler or recommended for employment elsewhere. "The program is proving mutually beneficial to Butler and the cooperating social institutions. Above all, it is generating job opportunities for qualified employees," according to John Merrill, superintendent of the buildings and grounds department at Butler.

Church Events

BY WILLA THOMAS

This week's meditation is mainly for church young people

10 RULES FOR TEENAGE CHRISTIANS

Discover... God's will for your life through daily Bible reading, prayer and Christian service and strive to become "doers" as well as "hearers" of God's will.

Accept... all persons, regardless of race, color, creed or economic status as children of God, remembering God's love for all mankind.

Honor... and respect your father and mother and all who have authority over you, for in so doing you will be keeping one of God's commandments.

Seek... the truth wherever you may find it. Do not be bound by the terms "conformity" and "non-conformity." Live according to the truth as you discover it.

Present... yourself at all times and in all places as acceptable to God and His teachings. Reveal your Christian Principles in your daily life.

Attend... regularly the church of your choice and give allegiance to the God of your faith, always respecting the faith of others.

Be True... to yourself and to all who put their trust in you. Maintain... an open mind and willing spirit, trying always to better understand the faith you profess.

Humble... yourself in the sight of God and your fellowmen, for humility before God and men in the Christian attitude to develop.

Dedicate... your time, talent and treasure to the high calling of God for your life, putting God first and self last.

Church ladies are encouraged to make plans now for celebration with giving.

There is now, like never before, an urgent need for fortunate Americans to give. Jesus, during his limited ministering on earth, made it clear to share with those in dire straits—especially the hungry.

Right now, thousands of Africans suffer from lack of food, and it hurts. It's a dreaded thought, but its true—some 12,000 people throughout the world will starve to death today. Imagine the trauma of parents who must watch their children wilt away because there just isn't anything to feed them.

Proverbs 19:17 says "He that hath pity upon the poor lendeth unto the Lord; and that which he hath given will He pay him again."

Luke 6:38 also takes up the issue: "Give and it shall be given unto you; good measure, pressed down and shaken together, and running over, shall men give into your bosom."

Think about it.

First Baptist Church, North Indianapolis, Missionary Society will have special programs Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

Mrs. George (Angela) Officer, chairman of Church Women United's Family Concern, is asking churches to donate various items for youngsters in the Juvenile Center. Give!

Congratulations to our very own Charles Walker, newly-elected National Baptist Convention of America Usher Board president... Hurry if you want reservations to the Church Federation's Dr. Grover Hartman retirement dinner... Church Women United is looking for new members. If interested, sit in on the next meeting September 28, 10 a.m., at the Inter-Church Center, 1100 W. 42nd. You can send your donation for the hunger help program to Church World Service, 1100 W. 42nd, Indianapolis, 46208. $1 buys 300 lbs of food... Thanks.

Free shots for senior older set

The Marion County Health Department has announced that it will hold free flu immunization clinics throughout Marion County for persons 55 years and older beginning October 1, 1979.

This year's influenza vaccine has been updated to offer protection against three influenza strains which recently caused disease (A/Brazil, A/Texas, and B/Hong Kong).

This flu shot is especially important for those people suffering from chronic debilitating disease such as, heart or kidney disease, chronic bronchitis or asthma, diabetes or tuberculosis.

Also, yearly flu shots are recommended as a preventive measure against such complications as pneumonia. If you would like information on the times and places of the immunization clinics in your area, please call the Central Indiana Council on Aging at 634-7082.

We'd be glad to hear of roles played by delegates at any national religious meeting. Call or write me.

Marion County Juvenile Center could use a little help from you. Good, clean clothing for children and youth are needed.

Contact Mrs. Angela Officer of Church Women United. Grooming articles and monetary donations are also acceptable. Treasurer is Mrs. H.C. Dellinger, 4569 Lincoln Road, Indianapolis, 46208.

Just a reminder the organization would like some 300 women from various churches to show up for their first seasonal meeting September 28, 10 a.m., at the InterChurch Center. If there're babysitting problems, bring the young one along, a toy for his pleasure and a sack lunch. Luncheon reservations can be made by calling Marilyn Wilkes at 926-5371.

Music biz potpurri

by the Unknown Writer
The music world is bracing itself for the release of a new Lp by soul genius Stevie Wonder. The Lp is set for October release... Soul Queen Aretha Franklin has returned to her recording career with a self-penned tune entitled "Ladies Only." The Tune is from her new Lp "LA DIVA," which was produced by the late Van

McCoy and his partner Charles Kipps. Mrs. Franklin recently was feted in L.A. with her star beint implanted in the Hollywood Walk of Fame. Phillip Bailey, the soaring falsetto voice in Earth, Wind and Fire, is recording a solo Lp... Disco Hitmaker Dan Hartman (formerly with the Edgar Winter Group) has Wonder playing harmonica on "Hands Down."

SOUL SOUNDS

Jacksons here Oct. 19

By LYNN FORD
A return to the platinum-selling ranks and interesting choreography and lighting will help usher the Jacksons into Market

Square Arena next month for the group's first concert here in five years.
The Gary, Ind. family act, which picked up a somewhat sagging record career with its current "Destiny" album, will play the arena at 8 p.m. Oct. 19, according to its Epic itinerary.

The show is part of the Jacksons' 10th anniversary world tour, which is a culmination of the success of "Destiny," which went platinum with the help of a gold single, "Shake Your Body (Down to the Ground)," to become its biggest selling record since prior to leaving Motown in 1975. Critics who have seen the shows on the tour, which opened last spring in Germany, have raved over what some call highly theatrical choreography and the new lighting effects, which include a huge "Jacksons" neon and multi-colored peacock.

Talk of lead singer Michael Jackson embarking on his first solo tour ever to promote his current "Off the Wall" album has apparently ended because of the tour demand for the entire group, but there will undoubtedly be a segment of the show spotlighting the now 21-year old singer.

No ticket or opening act information was available, but that news should be forthcoming.

McFadden and Whitehead follow their platinum "Ain't No Stoppin' Us Now" with "Mr. Music" b/w "Do You Want to Dance." Porter Wagoner will reportedly produce an album for D.J. Rogers, the former gospel singer who now calls himself "The Funky Cowboy." Dionne Warwick's "I'll Never Love This Way Again," produced by Barry Manilow, is her biggest single since 1972's "The Green Grass Starts to Grow." The Commodores' phenomenal country-pop single "Sail On," could be top 10 pop, easy listening and soul as you read this if its chart trends at this writing continue. The group's next single should be either "Midnight Magic" or "Sexy Lady."

And That's How The Soul Sounds.

BLACK TV NETWORK

Robert Johnson, former vice president of the National Cable Television Association, said recently in Washington, D.C., that he is currently laying plans to form the nation's first black TV network, providing movies, music, talk shows and sport events featuring blacks. The new network will be called Black Entertainment Television. Johnson said BET will provide free programs to stations, and will be the first cable system heavily dependent on advertising revenues rather than service fees.

The veteran of cable television went on to state, he hopes the new network, scheduled to be operating by January, 1980, "will be attractive to black as well as white subscribers." BET has leased time on the Madison Square Garden Network, giving it immediate access to almost 4.5 million cable households in 350 markets.

Johnson said he hopes to start out with two hours of programming each Sunday night.

Believe Me When I Tell You

increasing the time as more cable operators take the service and sponsor support grows. Initially, the programming will consist of films from the 1930s, and 1940's, with black casts; documentaries on black personalities, jazz programs, and independently made films on black topics.

"As the network grows, so does the potential to do original productions, live talk shows and live sports," he related. "There's no reason why Grambling (College) football should not be shown nationwide." "The rapid expansion of cable television into urban markets makes a black network economically feasible. Black consumers spend an estimated $70 billion a year." Also in conclusion, Johnson said, "In addition to providing a specialized market for advertisers, the new network will offer a "ready and accessible" medium for black performers. There is already a Spanish cable network operating in the Southwest and plans also are in the making for a cable network catering to senior citizens.

TID-BITS: Ella Fitzgerald, veteran jazz superstar was among the recipients to win this year's Kennedy Center's awards for achievements in the performing arts. The winners will be honored Dec. 2 at a White House reception, followed by a celebration at the Kennedy Center's Opera House.... On the local scene recently, Russell W. Brown, former director of the Attucks High School Music Department, was one of the recipients of the TRACI (To Recognize the Advancement of Culture in Indianapolis Award). The Distinguished Service award was presented to Brown by Mayor Williams H. Hudnut III, in a celebration ceremony at the Murat Theater.

We have been advised that in the very near future a movie based on the life of the late Duke Ellington seems all, but inevitable. Duke's screen biography is being talked up as a starring role for actor Billy Dee Williams, who has just completed a featured part in the "Star Wars" sequel, "The Empire Strikes Back."

Peaches undoes China's dress code on TV visit

"I was told not to expose my shoulders or my thighs in public while visiting China," Linda "Peaches" Green, the female half of the now sensational disco duo "Peaches & Herb," said about her recent two-week tour there for the history making "Bob Hope On The Road To China," a three-hour variety television special, the first to originate from mainland China. The telecast was aired on last Sunday Night's "Big Event" program over NBC-TV.

"The Chinese people are very conservative in their style dress, so I was told to be covered when I went out. Well, one day it was so hot that I put on a spaghetti strap top to go shopping with Herb's wife, Yvonne, who was wearing short shorts, we went into a store to do some shopping. When we looked up we saw that we had attracted a rather large crowd of people who were just staring at us."

June Carter Perry is appointed public affairs head for ACTION

WASHINGTON—June Carter Perry, former special assistant to the associate director of Public Affairs at the Community Services Administration, has been appointed associate director of the Office of Public Affairs at ACTION.

The announcement was made recently by ACTION director Sam Brown. ACTION, the federal volunteer service agency, administers the Peace Corps overseas and VISTA (Volunteers In Service To America), the Foster Grandparent, Senior Companion and Retired Senior Volunteer Programs here at home.

Ms. Perry, 35, of Washington, D.C., brings a full and varied background to her new role at ACTION. As special assistant to the associate director of Public Affairs at the Community Services Administration, she helped to set policy for the office and directed the day-to-day operations of that office. She held this position from October, 1977 until joining the ACTION staff in July of this year.

From 1974 until 1977, Ms. Perry was the director of Public Affairs at WGSN/RKO Radio in Washington. Among her many activities there, she produced, wrote and hosted nationally syndicated programs and created, wrote and produced public affairs and news programs. As a result of her work with WGSN, Ms. Perry was awarded the RKO Superior Achiever Award and the WGSN Special Recognition Award.

During 1973 and 1974, Ms. Perry wrote, produced and hosted daily radio programs for pre school and primary grade students through the radio project of the Washington, D.C. public schools. As part of this effort, Ms. Perry developed a special series in science, the arts and black history. During this period, she received the Metropolitan Mass Media Award for outstanding educational programming.

She also wrote, produced and hosted weekly commentary on Washington educational issues for radio station WTOP during 1974.

Ms. Perry's association with the Peace Corps began in 1970 when her husband, Fred Perry, was named Peace Corps country director in Guyana and later the Peace Corps deputy director in Malaysia. The Peace Corps no longer serves in the Latin American country of Guyana but presently fields 214 Peace Corps volunteers in Malaysia, Southeast Asia.

Ms. Perry notes an interesting aside: her mother, Louise Pendleton Carter, was a Peace Corps volunteer science and math teacher in Malaysia from 1971 until 1973. "But I almost never saw her! She was so busy," Ms. Perry laughs. Ms. Carter now directs a day care center in Texarkana, Texas.

Ms. Perry refers to her life in Guyana as "completely positive. The culture was very exciting. The people were highly skilled and very sophisticated."

She feels that "it was in Guyana that I began to understand the rationale behind the country team concept. Peace Corps should have a role in that. In a situation where there are internal problems, it's essential to work together."

Before joining her husband for their Peace Corps staff tour, Ms. Perry was a lecturer at the University of Maryland in College Park. During the 1969-1970 academic school year, she organized and taught a Survey of Black History course to 250 students and a seminar in Renaissance Reformations History.

In 1967 and 1968, Ms. Perry taught World Civilization at the Agricultural and Technical State University in Greensboro, N.C. She received her bachelor's degree from Munderlin College in 1965 and, as a Woodrow Wilson Fellow, her master's degree from the University of Chicago in 1967. Both schools are located in Chicago, Ill.

Her first international work experience was the result of her husband's 12-month tour as director of the Office of Economic Opportunity's programs in Micronesia/Trust Territory of the Pacific. During 1968 and 1969, she taught English, social studies and history on the junior and senior high school levels on Saipan.

"Going to Micronesia was the first time I experienced culture shock," Ms. Perry recalls. "Stepping off an airplane into a deserted, tiny island and standing in a sweltering tent with 50 sixth graders just revolutionized my way of looking at things. You still see men and boys in loin cloths in the Yap District and although they don't use it, there is still stone money. It was a fascinating place."

In reference to her new position with ACTION, Ms. Perry says that she is "really happy to be in a position to personally and selfishly enjoy learning more about what the agency is doing both internationally and domestically."

"My friends from so far back have been involved in international living. My grandfather was half French and began teaching me French as a little girl," she says.

Ms. Perry believes that "the American public is ready for a renewal of spirit. People are ready for change. A lot can be done in local communities if people are organized. This agency should assist people in attaining more knowledge and make citizen participation a reality. It should help people find greater access to resources and through effective information programs, heighten the public's awareness of ACTION's role."

In addition to awards mentioned above, Ms. Perry received the Black Achievers in Industry Award co-sponsored by TIME Magazine and the Harlem (New York City) YMCA. She is cited as an outstanding woman in communications in The Women's Book of World Records and Achievements and has been nominated for Outstanding Young Women of America, which recognizes exceptional women throughout the nation for professional achievements and community services. She also serves as vice president of the Women's Institute of the American University in Washington.

Ms. Perry's father is Bishop W. Carter of Pine Bluff, Ark. Ms. Perry, her husband and their sons, Chad, 7, and Andre, 22 months, live in Washington. Perry is the executive officer for the District of Columbia's Department of Human Resources.

NBL parlay will remain as late prexy planned

WASHINGTON, D.C.

The 79th Annual Convention of the nation's oldest business organization will convene on schedule September 21-26 at the Fairmont Hotel in New Orleans, Louisiana.

According to the national office, the National Business League Convention will be conducted as the League's late president, Dr. Berkeley G. Burrell, had planned it. However, the League announced the postponement of a Caucus of Black Delegates, set to be convened by Dr. Burrell and Rep. Parren Mitchell prior to the NBL Convention.

In accordance with provisions of the NBL By Laws, the League also announced that Franklin F. O'Neal, incumbent senior vice president, has assumed the duties of acting president, and will serve in that capacity until the 79th Convention. At that time, delegates will select an individual to serve the unexpired portion of Dr. Burrell's term.

As one of Dr. Burrell's last initiatives, the Caucus of Black Delegates was envisioned as a way to maximize the strength of the delegates selected to represent the interests of the minority community during the 1980 White House Conference on Small Business.

The Caucus agenda included issues crucial to the formulation of comprehensive policies for minority economic development. Given the overwhelming positive response to the initial call for such a meeting, the League fully intends to convene this important Caucus

Cancer Society supported by fraternal groups

NEW YORK—

The leaders of the country's largest black American fraternal organizations endorsed the cancer programs of the American Cancer Society and pledged the cooperation of their groups during their recent conventions.

They were Hobson R. Reynolds, Grand Exalted Ruler of the Improved Benevolent Protective Order of Elks of the World and Eugene Dickerson, Jr., Imperial Potentate of the Ancient Egyptian Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine of North and South America and its Jurisdictions, Prince Hall Affiliation.

Both were interviewed during their respective national meetings in New York City in August which drew more than 30,000 delegates from all across the U.S. and several foreign countries.

Shortly after Dr. LaSalle D. Leffall, Jr., president of the American Cancer Society, addressed more than 3,000 Elks and Daughter Elks at the New York Hilton, Reynolds declared "We're going to take this program to our people, because they're the apple of our eye."

In his report to the Grand Temple Dr. Wilbur H. Strickland, of Philadelphia, Grand Medical Director, put the Elks Health Department solidly behind the ACS program.

"A close and continuing affiliation with the American Cancer Society and similar national health organizations should be encouraged and maintained at the grand lodge level, in the state associations and at the local level throughout Elksdom."

A breast cancer screening program sponsored by the Purple Cross Nurses Division was conducted at the new York Hilton during the convention in cooperation with the ACS New York City Division.

At the Shriner's convention the following week, Dickerson declared "making the public aware of the dangers of cancer is an important program and we hope to go national with this concept."

Dickerson said that many of their Temples and health centers, and "our people have connections with many other community and religious organizations making for widespread influence. I'm sure they will share what they will learn here about cancer with their friends, neighbors, and associates."

The Imperial Court, Daughters of Isis sponsored a health fair at the Sheraton Center in cooperation with the ACS New York City Division and the ACS National Office. Tests for breast cancer and cervical cancer were offered to delegates and the public, while at the nearby New York Hilton, men received prostate examinations.

Dr. Aaron Wells of New York City, Imperial Medical Director coordinated the health fair, assisted by Frank Hill of New York City Division.

A health program for the more than 1,000 youths in attendance featured information on the ill effects of smoking, personal hygiene, and health careers.

Lilly comes up with new antibiotic for ear ills

Eli Lilly and Company has announced the introduction of a new antibiotic for treating drug-resistant bacteria.

These bacteria have helped make ear infections in children a serious problem once again, and also are involved in bronchitis and pneumonia.

The drug cefaclor was developed by Lilly Research Laboratories, a division of Eli Lilly and Company, and will be marketed by Lilly in the United States beginning this week under the brand name Ceclor. The drug was certified earlier this year by the Food and Drug Administration.

At a press briefing, Louise R. Levine, M.D., head of medical research for marketed products, noted that cefaclor has shown during extensive clinical trials to be effective in treating otitis media, an infection of the middle ear that frequently strikes infants.

"Cefaclor is an oral antibiotic effective against the common pathogens (bacteria) associated with otitis media as well as against susceptible strains of Haemophilus influenzae that have become resistant to ampicillin and amoxicillin, the drugs usually prescribed," said Dr. Levine.

She discussed the clinical trial work of two leading scientists, Charles D. Bluestone, M.D., director of the Department of Otolaryngology at Children's Hospital in Pittsburgh, and Jayne O. Gentry, M.D., associate professor of medicine at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

Dr. Levine also discussed the work of another prominent scientist, Jerome O. Klein, M.D., professor of pediatrics at the Boston University School of Medicine. Dr. Klein's studies have provided information on the impact of hearing loss from otitis media on a child's ability to learn.

All three scientists reported on their findings at a simultaneous press briefing for the nation's medical press today in New York.

Dr. Klein said approximately 70 percent of the estimated 3.5 million babies born in the United States this year or about 2.5 million will have otitis media with effusion (fluid) in their first three years.

Based on findings from his study of 2,500 children in the greater Boston area, Dr. Klein said 33 percent of all children under three suffered three or more episodes of the disease.

"We can estimate that more than a million children born each year will have three or more episodes of middle ear infection by their third birthday," he said. "Some have many more than three infections."

"Medical costs practically double for these 'otitis-prone' children. They average 20 visits to a physician in their first two years, compared with 10 for those with no problems with ear disease."

Dr. Klein noted a "new acknowledgment" of hearing loss associated with the fluid

False ID costs in U.S. surge

To lose a wallet, or coin purse containing valuable pieces of identification, can lead to what government officials estimate to be a healthy $16 billion a year racket in the United States.

Too seldom, when such commodities are lost or misplaced, they wind up in an honest person's confines. That results (as it should) in the kindly gesture of returning the confidential items in the same condition as they were when lost.

On the other hand, the lost identification can end up in the criminal, or prospective criminal's hands. This is when the trouble begins, for there is a very small percentage of U.S. citizens who do not rely on their valuable written credentials. They are the passports to every day maneuvering.

Tipton for Hillenbrand

State Senator Eldon Tipton (D-Jasonville) today released his endorsement of John A. Hillenbrand, unannounced Democratic candidate for Governor of Indiana.

In commenting upon his endorsement Senator Tipton stated, "I have decided to support John A. Hillenbrand for Governor, because in my opinion he is the Democrat who is electable in 1980. My personal opinion has been reinforced through meeting with the constituents in my district: I am finding strong grassroots support for John A. Hillenbrand as the next Governor of Indiana."

Senator Tipton stated that his endorsement of John A. Hillenbrand should not be construed as a negative reflection upon the state senator from Hartford City. "My colleague is a man with extensive legislative experience who has contributed well to Indiana; however, John A. Hillenbrand is the man who can unify the Democratic Party and lead them to victory in 1980."

Senator Tipton, a member of the Indiana State Senate since 1973, continued, "I have been a member of the State Senate through two Republican administrations, in order for the Democratic Party to be effective in the legislature, we need a leader like John Hillenbrand in the state house."

Congressional Black Caucus Reports to the People

By Rep. Bennett M. Stewart

During his presidential campaign, Jimmy Carter pledged to balance the federal budget by fiscal year 1980. Since the 1976 campaign, a greater push for a balanced budget and "fiscal restraint" has been provided by the Proposition 13-spawned "tax revolt."

Elected officials have responded to this mood of fiscal conservatism by looking for ways to cut government spending. Although it is unlikely that the federal budget will be balanced in 1980, there will be a tremendous amount of political pressure to balance the budget in 1981.

The issue is not whether to balance the budget. There is near general agreement that the federal budget should be balanced. In fact, the landmark Humphrey-Hawkins Act had a balanced budget as one of its objectives.

The issue is how much it will cost this country to balance the budget if spending policies are not changed. For blacks, the elderly, the disadvantaged and other minorities, the real issue is what will be the sacrifices for a balanced budget.

On July 20, 1979, as Chairman of the Budget Committee Task Force on Human and Community Resources, I held a hearing on the "Long Term Implications of Current Budget Trends on Employment, Minority Business and Education."

Two of the witnesses, Dr. Benjamin Hooks, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), and Dr. M. Harvey Brenner, professor at Johns Hopkins University, raised some new issues about how the current economic situation and prospective budget trends will affect human resources.

Combining extensive experience in national affairs and relatively new mathematical models, both men provided me and my colleagues on the Task Force with new data and crucial facts about the actual cost of a balanced budget.

Dr. Hooks testified that if congressional leaders stick to current policies, the unemployment level would rise from the current level of 5.7 percent to over 8 percent by 1980. Realizing that black males are already unemployed at 2 1/2 times their white counterparts, any rise in unemployment would be particularly devastating within the black community.

Dr. Brenner presented a new statistical method of evaluating changes in social pathologies that would result from a balanced budget. Social pathologies are social phenomena such as increased rates of some diseases, incarceration, homicide and suicide.

Based on data gathered between 1940 and 1973 by the Joint Economic Committee, Dr. Brenner found that an unemployment increase of one percent would result in a 1.1 percent increase in suicides, 3.4 percent rise in mental hospital admissions, 4 percent increase in incarcerations, 5.7 percent rise in the homicide rate, 1.9 percent increase in cirrhosis of the liver and 1.9 percent rise in cardiovascular disease.

During 1970, there was a 1.4 percent increase in the unemployment rate. During that same year, there was an increase of 1,540 persons who committed suicide, a rise of 5,000 admissions in state and mental hospitals, 47,000 prison admissions and 1,740 cases of homicide. The mortality rate for 1970 increased by 51,570.

Proceeding one step further in this analysis, transposing these statistics into dollars, this government spent as a result of higher unemployment, $63 million for suicides, $82 million for mental health care, $210 million for the penal system, $134 million for homicides and $1.3 million for the treatment of cardiovascular disease. The total mortality costs as a result of unemployment was $6.6 billion.

These figures constitute a conservative estimate of the costs this country has had to make as a result of only minimal shifts in the unemployment level. With a shift from 5.7 to 8 percent unemployment within the total population, the costs would be proportionately higher.

For population segments, like minorities, who are already disproportionately represented within the unemployment figures, the costs could be substantial. Furthermore, these statistics do not measure the damage to society as a whole.

A balanced budget in 1980 or 1981 will certainly not be without heavy social and economic costs. These costs must be measured and evaluated before economic decisions are made. The American people should be apprised of all the pluses and minuses of a balanced budget.

The BLACKSIDE of Washington

Come on in, Joe, and close the door. We have something to talk over that's being kept secret from the American people.

You know, Joe, most folks think that only the poor live in low-rent housing projects. I had been thinking this myself until the other night when a Jewish couple, with whom my wife and I frequently dine, brought up my recent column on PROJECTS.

Our friends reminded me that while all Americans do not reside in PROJECTS, they reside in SUBSIDIZED housing. Of course, we don't call their homes PROJECTS.

You see, it's like this, Joe, everyone who is buying a home, has bought a home, or is renting one is benefiting or indirectly from the income tax deduction of interest payments included in the notes on homes.

If the balance owed on your home, Joe, is $50,000 and the interest rate is 10 percent, then you can deduct $5,000 next year in interest payments as you calculate your 1979 income taxes.

Think of it, Joe, former President Nixon bought a home in New York City the other day for one million dollars. Let's say, Joe, that he paid $200,000 down and has an $800,000 on his 12 room condominium. Let's assume he was able to borrow the money at 10 percent, then his interest payment the first year will be $80,000. He can deduct this, Joe, from his income taxes. What a SUBSIDY, Joe.

You know, we folks in the PROJECTS, Joe, are not only being denigrated, we're being CHEATED too.

Help for Black Colleges.

Back in January, President Carter promised more help for black colleges. Since then, he and Assistant Secretary of HEW for Education Mary F. Berry have been developing plans to help these schools get more grants and contracts. Now they are ready to put the plans into effect.

Louis Martin, special assistant to the President, is coordinating the effort, and Meldon Hollis, special assistant to Dr. Berry, is handling the details.

Martin, Dr. Berry and Hollis plan to confer with all the 100 or so black college heads throughout the country, but mostly in the South within the next few months. They will hold their first meeting this week in Texas at Prairie View on the 20th with nine college presidents.

Brigadier General Hazel W. Johnson, who was sworn in a month ago as the first black woman general in U.S. history, is settling into her job in the Pentagon where she directs 3,800 Army nurses around the world.

Agenda for the 1980s

Years ago, at the dawn of the 1900s, the great black scholar and activist W.E.B. DuBois wrote that "the problem of the Twentieth Century is the problem of the color line."

As our nation enters the 1980s the color line is still with us. The challenge of the coming decade is to dismantle the color line that places a ceiling on black opportunities while removing the floor from black services.

That implies an agenda for action to bring about a greater measure of equality for all Americans. While blacks and other minorities are most in need of major domestic reforms, all poor people would benefit from them. And since fully two thirds of the poor are white, the "black agenda" is also one that crosses racial and regional lines.

The core of the black agenda includes a handful of major issues. Prime among them is a National full employment policy.

That takes on added significance as the nation slides into still another recession that will mean escalating unemployment. Black jobless rates are now well over double the white rates. Current unemployment levels are intolerable for blacks and too high for everyone.

So the coming decade ought to see a national commitment to decent jobs for all as a matter of right — in the private sector wherever possible, in the public sector if industry can't absorb all of our workers.

And an indispensable feature of a full employment policy has to be a national commitment to affirmative action. This is necessary if blacks are to achieve full parity in employment and educational opportunities. A vigorous affirmative action thrust in the 1980s will mean no further need for special affirmative action efforts by 1990, because its goals will have been met.

In addition to jobs, the agenda for the 1980s includes an income maintenance system to replace the rotting welfare system. Current welfare reform proposals should be just the first step toward development of a comprehensive, federally administered income maintenance system free of punitive elements and available to all in need.

Another key item is a national youth development program that assures young people especially disadvantaged youth, of the skills, schooling and services they need to participate fully in our society. There are nearly ten million black and white poor children in America, and neglect of their needs can only perpetuate poverty.

Health is a major part of the agenda, especially for black people who have higher incidence of bad health and less access to quality health care. The widespread closing of public hospitals and clinics in the minority neighborhoods of many cities for budgetary reasons shamefully worsens an already serious health care crisis for the poor.

The current debate over health insurance proposals has been personalized and limited. The 1980s ought to see passage of a national health system that is unified, comprehensive, consumer-oriented, and guarantees total quality health care services for all.

Finally, the coming decade should mark achievement of the long-standing goal of decent housing for all. Thirty years ago Congress passed a National Housing Act whose goal of decent housing for all. Thirty years ago Congress passed a National Housing Act whose goal was to provide "a decent home and suitable living environment for every American family."

That elusive goal is nowhere in sight, and it should be a major part of an agenda for the 1980s. A first step toward that goal would be to finally eradicate racial discrimination in housing through beefing up federal enforcement powers.

The agenda for the 1980s includes other items as well, but these are the central issues that touch on the lives of all of our people and are central to the future of the nation.

They are issues of pressing importance for blacks, who are more likely to be in need of jobs, health care, decent housing, and education. But in sheer numbers, more whites would benefit from such steps than blacks, just as the reforms of the 1960s moved far more whites than blacks out of poverty and disadvantage.

The civil rights struggle of the 1950s and '60s concentrated on winning rights; those of the 1970s on defending the limited gains of previous years. But the civil rights issues of the 1980s will be to secure between blacks and whites, and to remove race once and for all as a negative factor in our society.

Busing is no answer

To Indianapolis School Board:
I'm a black parent who's against busing, as most black parents are. The policy of your board has been to require as much busing as possible, including the suburbs.

The busing away from inner-city schools has generally been based on the assumption that those schools are inferior; if this is true, I can sympathize with suburban parents for not wanting their children to be bused there.

To justify busing, it has been contended, and maybe rightly so, that if white pupils are bused to a so-called inferior school, that automatically that school would receive more attention (better facilities, etc.) from then on.

What all parents, black and white, want to know, is why does not your board, with the power to do so, equalize the quality of all your schools, and thus cut out the busing that is not improving our children's education, but is increasing the hostility between the two races?

Daughter looking for mom

To the editor:

I am writing this letter to The Indianapolis Recorder because of a problem I have, and hoping that through The Recorder I can seek help. My name is Penny Canedy, black female, age 34 years old.

In January of this year, I found out purely by accident that I was adopted. I had no prior knowledge of this at all. I acquired my birth certificate September 8, 1979, with my mother's name. Her name is Helen Sawyer, born in Indianapolis, but may be married now and have another name.

I was born Infant Sawyer, black female, August 29, 1945. I would like very much to locate my mother any way possible.

I reside at 781 Donna Court, Radeliffe, Ky., 40160. I had been a resident of Indianapolis until 1967.

I would appreciate if an article could be placed in The Recorder. If anyone knows Helen Sawyer or of her whereabouts, please contact me at the above address.

If she is deceased, I would like to know that also, and my search will end, but either way, I must have some peace of mind. People who never have experienced this type of situation cannot fully understand the anxiety a person feels and hope.

Thank you so much for taking time to read my letter. I will be looking forward to hearing from you.

Ingrates?

To the editor:

On your editorial page (September 15), six editorials, including columns by Vernon Jordan and Benjamin Hooks appear. In none of them is the slightest recognition or suggestion that any improvement whatsoever has come about in the status of blacks, despite the billions of dollars spent by private and governmental segments to improve the situation. Yet blacks are wondering why whites are fast losing interest in minority programs.

Disillusioned

Medical help is lacking in prison

To the Editor:

I am writing out of concern for self and other prisoners, and I am writing for assistance in reference to the prisoners infirmary here at Indiana State Prison.

To begin with, the infirmary is missing quite a few windows that the administration has neglected to repair.

The rooms are very unsanitary, it is infested with cockroaches and mice, the hospital beds are pitiful also.

Instead of proper mattresses, we have a plastic covered foam mattresses which are very thin and cause one back problems. Prisoners here are seen by two Vietnamese doctors with which there is very little communication; we can't understand them and it appears from their facial expression that they can't understand us. Prisoners are given medication with expiring dates and many prisoners have been given the wrong medication.

Jack Duckworth, warden, who is responsible for the prisoners of this institution, has limited the medical care, therefore, we the prisoners are not receiving the proper medical care or attention that we are entitled to under the Indiana code, Chapter 3, Section 11-1-4.

I am not saying that these Vietnamese doctors are not qualified individuals, but I am saying it's hard to understand them and for them to under-

Business In Black

By CHARLES E. BELLE

WILLIAMSTOWN, MASS. — This is Senator Edward Kennedy for President of the United States country. At least that is what the sign says over a local food store doorway off the Mohawk Trail highway.

We are not hiding out in Williamstown. It is the home of Williams College. Such is the setting of a seminar on "American Political Values." Sen. Kennedy here for four weeks on such a subject means deliberate acknowledgement of the occupant of the White House.

When some doubt was cast that Carter could not do anything to bring us simple seminars down out of the Berkshire Hills, bingo, Carter barked up his Cabinet. Bad news, we should have stayed in our trees.

It is extremely difficult to distinguish the new Cabinet from the old woodwork. We could cheer at the promotion of Secretary Patricia Roberts Harris, but then cry over the spilling of the non-smoking Secretary Califano.

An eminent professor of the over 200 year old Williams College, and author, as well as, counselor to several previous Democratic Presidents accurately described the Cabinet changes as a move to the right of the American political center.

President James Earl Carter was not elected by a populace whose political positions could accurately be pin pointed to the right of America's political center. Carter apparently conceives of coming in the 1980 elections as the candidate of the conservative right.

Risking recession for the white folks and depression for the darkies in the labor force. Fighting fire with fire, the President may find himself fighting alone, or at least with only a Georgia work gang. In getting the resignations of the Cabinet and staff members, Carter got his Presidential re-election campaign off dead center.

Concentration of his re-election committee and Cabinet changes will be focused on fighting inflation. Continued rising unemployment will apparently be accepted by the James Earl Carter Administration up until election day. Doing it this way, the White House hopes to break the back of inflation.

In the event this is the scenario, someone should send Jimmy a copy of the American Council of Life Insurance, a trade group, survey on affirmative action. It states there is a strong public support for affirmative action. Almost 17 percent of the 3,729 individuals surveyed said it's fair for business to set up a specialized training programs solely for minorities and women.

Even among whites alone there was a 69 percent approval rate. In short only true racists are unaware of the need to place renewed special interest in finding employment for the disenfranchised people in this country.

James Earl Carter is his Cabinet and policy changes, failed to recognize this obvious public and political consensus for caring for Black America.

Many parents don't realize that household plants can be poisonous if swallowed.

Regulate runaway shops

By BAYARD RUSTIN

At a time when the business lobby in Washington incessantly moans and groans about "excessive" government regulation, it has become increasingly apparent to me that much of the complaining is unwarranted. Indeed, considering the arrogant behavior of numerous corporations which have simply closed up shop in small or medium sized cities to seek greener and more profitable pastures elsewhere, there seems to be a compelling case for more — not less — regulation.

As things stand now, large corporations which control plants in predominantly one-industry towns — like Youngstown, Ohio; Johnstown, Pennsylvania; and Lackawanna, New York — can exert the power of life or death over local communities. After fully exploiting community resources like the education system, public services, police protection, and the talents and sweat of ordinary people, any corporation can unilaterally — and without prior notice — declare what amounts to a "no fault" divorce. The communities, in short, have no say whatsoever in corporate decisions affecting their very survival.

To curtail the ability of corporations to casually move their plants without regard for the people and communities that served them so well, a number of individuals and organizations, especially trade unions, have prepared national and state legislation. For example, Representative William Ford (D-Michigan), Senator Donald Riegle (D-Michigan), and Senator Harrison Williams (D-New Jersey) have introduced bills in Congress which would require corporations to give their employees at least two years notice of plant closings. Additionally, the legislation calls for federal assistance to plants which attempt to avoid shut-downs and economic impact statements analyzing the overall consequences of relocation. More important still, these bills assist displaced workers by guaranteeing them transfer rights, decent severance pay, re-training in new skills, and protection of their pension rights.

As one might expect, business groups have already expressed strong opposition to legislation which enforces any sort of corporate responsibility toward host communities. Under the present lax system, corporations can — and have — virtually blackmailed communities by threatening to pull-out unless they were granted special tax treatment, a greater role in local affairs, or some other concessions. Faced with the loss of jobs, many localities have understandably submitted to these veiled threats.

For black people, the issue of "runaway shops" has special significance. To begin with, a disproportionate number of blacks are losing jobs in the North Eastern and Mid-Western states as companies suddenly pull-out and move to the Sunbelt. In many instances, these displaced black workers have spent years acquiring valuable skills, accumulating seniority, and building up pension rights. But after a lifetime's investment, many of these workers have nothing left. Their lives are shattered because their employer hopes to make a somewhat larger profit in another state.

Runaway shops harm black people in another way as well: Many of the jobs eliminated in the North are good paying union jobs; but when they move to the Sunbelt, almost all of the jobs become non-union and therefore lower-paid. Good opportunities for blacks in the North are transformed into dead-end jobs for blacks in the South.

Many corporations, of course argue that the government should not attempt to establish standards of corporate responsibility. According to business leaders, such "government-dictated" regulations infringe on basic freedoms and interfere with profitability. But the fact remains that corporations have so abused their freedom, that there is no alternative to stringent regulations regarding plant relocation.

NBC's Gumble dispels slow minority advance theory

He comes over as a good all-around sport fan, which he is. But more importantly, Bryant Gumble is one of the most sought after sportscasters currently working in television.

In a time when many affirmative action groups are crying "foul" in the proportion of blacks to white journalists (print or electronic mediums), Gumble seems to have a grip on what still may hold additions to a fruitful sportscasting career.

During spare time in his native home of New Orleans, Gumble was more than willing to discuss his meteoric career with NBC Sports, all the while leaning back in a chair while gently bouncing his infant son on his knee.

"Coming down here is like coming home," he said. "I was born here and still have numerous relatives living in the New Orleans area. However, my dad was one of those men who headed north in search of better opportunities when we moved to Chicago, where I spent my formative years," said the man who is considered one of the most articulate sportscasters television has ever produced.

Gumble couldn't help but reflect on two aspects of his life, one which had a great influence on his enthusiasm and devotion to the field of sportscasting, the other evolving from a not so spirited rival with CBS sportscaster, Brent Musberger, formerly his main competition in Los Angeles.

Gumble, still based in Los Angeles, says his father was a sports nut and infected himself and a brother with the same affliction. "He dragged us to every kind of ball game imaginable, but he loved baseball the best."

"It's understandable that both my brother and I would end up as sportscasters on television. My brother is with the NBC station in Chicago and occasionally does network pieces," Gumble added.

When asked about his on-going feud with Musberger, what did Gumble think of it?

"I'll never understand that man or why he goes about the country dumping on me. Maybe he's terribly insecure as a person," quipped Gumble.

"When I first joined the NBC Sports Sunday afternoon football show, people would ask me what I thought about CBS' show with Brent, Phyllis George and Irv Cross and I would say that I thought it was a pretty good show. When anyone would ask Musberger what he thought of our show, he would deliver a tirade about us being bush league and I don't know what else. The man got to be a pain," said Gumble.

Gumble didn't hesitate to poke he has not encountered this type of attitude from many other sportscasters—and if there are those who possess the same character which Gumble assumes of Musberger, Gumble says he doesn't know about it.

"There are not many," he says, "thank goodness. In fact, my experience has been just the opposite. When I first broke in with 'Grandstand,' I was the rookie on the show and the top man was Jack Buck, who has spent more years in sportscasting than I had lived on earth."

"He could have cut me up in little pieces in the booth, but he didn't. More to the point, he went out of his way to help me. Not only that, he would take my wife and me on grand tours of New York, to the best restaurants, everything."

Everything has included a rapid rise for Gumble, to say the least. Last year, besides his anchor post with the NBC Sunday football show, Gumble was part of the NBC sports-casting crew which handled segments of major league baseball's post-season play.

He has also anchored NBC's Baseball "Game of the Week."

The demand for journalism for a Bryant Gumble-type character continues to foil the adage that minorities lack the essential spontaneous vocabulary and candor so necessary for this kind of occupation.

Carter meets with women on Title IX

A group of women athletes met with President Carter September 13 to urge that a long-awaited federal regulation barring sex discrimination in school sports programs to be issued and enforced swiftly.

Also attending the meeting was HEW Secretary Patricia Roberts Harris.

"We're here as a living statement that we want women to be able to grow up as part of the American tradition of participating in sports," said Donna de Varona, an Olympic gold medalist in swimming.

Joining de Varona at the meeting were Olympic hurdler Lacey O'Neals, golfer Carol Mann and race car driver Janet Guthrie, all members of the Women's Sports Foundation.

"There are tens of thousands of other women out there who could have been Lacey O'Neals, Carol Manns, Janet Guthries, but they never got the opportunities," de Varona said.

The women presented Carter and Mrs. Harris with a declaration endorsed by 26 national sports organizations, 18 individuals and 20 national organizations in support of Title IV, the federal law barring sex discrimination in educational programs and activities, including sports.

"The president, 'De Varona, said, 'Didn't have anything definitive to say about Title IV, but he said he does support women's sports.'"

The women said they were impressed with Mrs. Harris, who promised to review the regulations being drafted by

Black Expo to reap 3rd Mayor's Tennis Tournament proceeds

The Mayor's third annual 'Benefit Tennis Tournament' will be co-sponsored by Indiana Black Expo, on Saturday and Sunday. And will be played at the new Indianapolis Sports Center, 725 West New York Street.

The proceeds from this event will be donated to Indiana Black Expo 79 to defray expenses as well as men and women's doubles competition will highlight the two day event.

To make this year's tournament interesting, a doubles elimination procedure will be utilized to eventually crown two championship teams in all events. Undelected and consolation winners, as well as runners-up teams will be awarded prizes.

Honorary Chairmen for this event are Councilman Glen Howard and Councilwoman Paula Parker. The coordinator is Bob Hill, Chairman of Indiana Black Expo's Tennis Tournament.

Bulldog bark so far, 'winless'

Bill Sylvester's Butler University Football team will attempt to gain their first victory of the season on Saturday when the Dayton Flyers of coach Rick Carter visit the Butler Bowl for the first 1979 home football game.

The Bulldogs, now 0-2 after Saturday's tough 10-9 loss at Hillsdale College in Michigan, will bring a strong defensive unit into the bowl. But so far this season, the offense has had a tendency to self-destruct.

On Saturday, Butler's defense held Hillsdale College without a touchdown, the Charger's six-pointer coming against the specialty team on a 95-yard kickoff return. Hillsdale got only eight first downs and 158 yards total offense.

But Hillsdale defenders intercepted Butler passes five times, setting up their field goal and thwarting Butler drives. Add a mixed extra point and a missed 40-yard field goal attempt, and the net result is a one point loss.

"Our defense has played well all season," said Sylvester. "Much of the time against Eastern Illinois, we gave them good field position so they didn't have to work too hard for many of their 38 points. And our defense last week actually held Hillsdale to only one field goal."

"We've moved the ball well on offense, but we've made some mistakes and have stopped drives before we've gotten points on the board. Those are the mistakes we have to eliminate."

It won't be easy on Saturday because Dayton brings a 2-1 record into the Butler Bowl with wins over the King's Point (28-0) and Otterbein (28-3), the

Nasty's 'side show'

To the Sports editor:

He opened with statistics showing how well he has conducted himself on the court. Ha! He then went to what a good guy he is. Then he and the rest of his "subjects" that made up his T.V. Side Show, proceeded to stage their version of what happened.

Nasty made another racist joke when he asked one of his flunkies "would you mind playing the part of the Puerto Rican Police?" He gave a version of the police brass apologizing for the policeman's performance of his duty and asking him if he (Nasty) wanted to press charges.

Nasty holds court at the Assembly Hall in Bloomington. He even had his racist lawyer get up and "oil" the reporters and the T.V. viewing audience. Funny, Nasty put down the Puerto Rican judicial process (which is legal), but yet he held court at 'Mecca' (I.U. Bloomington) on state-wide T.V. (which was illegal) and presented a case entirely in favor of the "Nasty Knight". There were no witnesses for the Plaintiff's allowed in Nasty's Kangaroo Court.

In summation, ladies and gentlemen of the jury, Nasty paraded his witnesses before the audience for the "Grand Finale". And, one by one they came fourth before the audience (jury) to give their "Testimonial of honesty". One flunky mentioned he's from the "Academy of Honesty", and not dare lie, because they practiced the "honor system". Ha!

But, what really "cut" the deepest was when Nasty used that old "slavery entrapment scheme" and had his token niggers who's only role through the whole "trial facade" (oops, press conference), was to sit and head the table in ignorant slumber, throughout the whole affair, and then on cur, walk to the microphone and recite from rehearsed memory their "venomous slander" and persecution of another Black man. As their rehearsed condemnation of the Black Puerto Rican police Officer rolled from their lips, the three black athletes, one by one, came before the microphone, shuffled their feet (sand box), scratched and lowered their heads. Each and every one of them choked on their Massuh's poison.

And now, each and every one of the Black athletes will be on to a glorious season in sports: Mike will probably make All American, Isiah will have a sensational freshman year, etc. But, neither of them will be able to escape the fact that they put the whip to another Black man's back, just as their ancestors did for the Massuh in olden days.

Oh, Nasty permitted a few token questions from the peanut gallery, but after all was said and done, Nasty found himself "Not Guilty" and he's not going back.

Well, I was on your jury sucker, and from the evidence presented from your own case, I find you guilty as charged. I also find you guilty of being a Super Racist and not even knowing it.

Fact: (1) You thought it humorous to ask if one of your flunkies wanted to play the role of the Puerto Rican cop; (2) that Kermit Washington struck Tom Johnovitch; (3) that in all of your references of negativity at the games, you referred to people of color, Cubans, etc. The Puerto Rican Judicial System has found you guilty as charged and sentenced you.

With that, I'm going to the hoop, ya'll.

NBA pre-season shuffles

Hardly anyone doubted there would be any shuffling when the NBA's 22-team camps began practice last week for the 32nd season, which gets underway October 12.

As expected many trades took place. Ten-year veteran Spencer Haywood went from the Utah Jazz (formerly New Orleans) to the Los Angeles Lakers in exchange for former Thirty-four year-old Walt (Clyde) Frazier was among 19 players who reported to the Cleveland Cavaliers' pre-training camp. Frazier, who gained a star-flash reputation and nickname "Clyde" while playing with the New York Knicks, pronounced himself ready at the start of camp, "to help the HEW's Office for Civil Rights "immediately." Harris did not say when the final regulations may be released, they said.

The regulations, which effect the financing of equal opportunity programs in college sports, originally were scheduled to be out past April, but repeatedly have been delayed.

The controversial regulations have been the target of a lobbying effort by a coalition of almost 300 colleges opposed to the proposed spending formulas. Many athletic directors and coaches, moreover, want sports completely exempted from the anti-discrimination law.

"We want to show the president Secretary Harris and the Members of Congress that there is a visible grass roots support for Title IV, that it's not just an issue for lawyers, educators, people outside the system," de Varona said. The athletes also denounced a number of amendments to the Department of Education bill that, as Guthrie said, "takes the teeth out of Title 9" and other civil rights legislation. The bill remains in conference.

During a press conference arranged by Senator Ted Stevens (R-Alaska), the women also called for the appropriation of $16 million that Congress authorized last session for the reorganization of the United States Olympic movement.

The authorization, which barely passed Congress in the waning moments of the last session, currently is under scrutiny of the Office of Management and Budget. Stevens, a major sponsor of the reorganization bill last year, urged support for the appropriation

Cain's death inquiry reveals 'rare' condition

ST. LOUIS—

No drugs, no foreign substances in the bloodstream, no dehydration.

None of the above became conclusions into the death of J.V. Cain, the St. Louis Cardinals tight end who died during a practice session July 22. His death has been attributed to an extremely rare congenital condition, finds the medical team which researched the sudden death of the 6-4, 220-pound 28-year-old athlete.

Dr. James Ruggles, clinical pathologist, said Cain harbored a syndrome involving "myocardial fibrosis," the growth of fiber-muscular tissue—over blood vessels in a portion of his heart, fiber which finally shut off the oxygen needed to keep the heart beating.

"Very, very loosely, it would be called a heart attack," Ruggles said, but with a difference: "In the middle-aged man, the weekend athlete, it is ordinarily a blood clot from within" that shuts off the oxygen.

As to Cain's condition, Ruggles went on, "The odds are prohibitive. I've read of only nine cases in recent medical literature. Three or four of those were athletes."

Ex-Wisconsin star killed in Nairobi

MADISON, Wis.—Tariq Mughal, the University of Wisconsin record holder in the 60- and 100-meter dashes, was shot and killed in an ambush recently at his home in Nairobi, according to Dan McClimmon, the Wisconsin track coach.

Mughal, 26, who graduated from Wisconsin in 1976, was pursuing his medical degree at universities in Cairo and Nairobi, McClimmon said.

The ambush July 20 resulted in the death of five relatives of Mughal, McClimmon was told. He said Mughal remained in critical condition until his death August 24.

Sycamores find grid winning ways also

The Indiana State Sycamores were one of the winningest schools in college basketball history last season. Matter of fact, the team didn't lose a game until the NCAA championship lost to Michigan State.

With autumn in the midst of our calendars, there is wonder about ISU's football program. Has it gained any type of momentum from the prosperous glory inherited through success on the basketball court?

There is reason to believe so. For ISU grid mentor Dick Jamieson stand presently the winningest coach in the state after victories September 1 and September 8. He says he is happy to get off to a 2-0 start, but like most coaches, he's guarded about tooting the horn of his thus far, undefeated Sycamores.

"The first three games on this year's team would be improved over last year's, and so far it's proven true, but there are nine tough weeks left in the season," said Jamieson.

"How much better we are this year really remains to be seen," Jamieson added.

Piloting the Sycamores in the early season has been sophomore quarterback Reggie Allen of Monessen, Pa., a Missouri Valley offensive player of the week—which was on the basis of his performance against Wichita State. Allen finished with 244 total yards in offense, which included 13 completions in 21 pass attempts for a career-high 210 yards.

While the Sycamores employed more than a half dozen running backs in the first two games, leading rushers are junior fullback Zack Washington (Jennette, Pa.), 151 yards and two touchdowns in 35 carries, and junior tailback Donnie Warner (Anderson-Madison Heights), who has picked up 149 yards in 24 attempts for an excellent 6.2 average per carry.

Key receivers have been a swift trio of sophomores, who have snagged 12 of 19 pass completions by signal caller Allen. They are tight end Hubert Moore (Kansas City, Mo.), with five for 79 yards and one TD, wide receiver Kirk Wildon (New Orleans), with four catches for 98 yards, including one sparkling reception for 59 yards against Wichita State, and wide receiver Eddie Ruffin (Peoria, Ill.), with three aerials for 29 yards.

The Sycamores, who had recorded an impressive 46 first downs to their opponents 15 in 54 more offensive snaps (167 to 113) are led defensively by free safety John Allman (St. Louis), ISU's candidate for MVC defensive player of the week honors. In the first two games the 6-1 junior tri-captain notched 12 tackles, including two for a loss of six yards, plus a pair of pass deflections.

Other defensive leaders, statistically, ends Gerry Gluscie (McKeesport, Pa.) with 15 tackles, three pass deflections and one interception, and Dwight Tripp (Detroit), also in or 15 tackles and a pass deflection.

IPS-IEA contract

instead attending workshops sponsored by the Indiana Education on "attitudes."

Moreover, there was indication by Huse Wednesday that sequestered negotiators for IPS and IEA were making some progress toward reaching a settlement.

Nonetheless, progress which had been made in "many side issues," Huse said, involves "something like 30 issues on the table and only one is money," said the judge, of the non-stop talks he ordered between the two sides.

Tuesday, Huse released 29 picketers after imposing penalties for picketing activities early Monday against his orders. Figures were not available on how many blacks were among those arrested, or still holding out in the job action.

The judge had also ordered IEA to pay $1,500 for three days of strike activity during the two days school was closed last week and for one day this week. Having been fined for teachers also who did not report for work, IEA faces as much as $50,000 in fines for Tuesday no-shows alone.

When the strike began the day after Labor Day (Sept. 4), teachers were seeking a 11.5 percent raise in salary (for a nine-month period) while the school board indicated it would yield to a one percent increase only.

Observers watching closely figured the strike was nearing a halt, particularly after Huse issued his order last week that both teachers and school officials appear in court to work on a new contract. He further ordered the school board to find money for a seven percent raise.

Ironically, IEA officials denounced that as unacceptable because it includes a three percent increment increase and only a four percent general raise.

That all but caused IEA President Kathy Orrison, who has been at the bargaining table throughout the sequestered negotiations, to hit the ceiling.

"It's still doubtful teachers would return without a ratification vote by the membership of the school board," she predicted concerning teachers returning to classrooms this week in full scale.

Approximately 75,000 pupils are enrolled in IPS schools. Some 1,100 teachers were still reported absent from work as school closed Wednesday. Substitute teachers have been retained throughout the strike by IPS—paid as much as $50 per day, compared to an average of $85 per day for regular classroom teachers.

Although the edict by Judge

Huse appeared a vital cog in ending the present two-week strike, it was evident from remarks Sunday morning by IEA Strike Coordinator Oscar Jones, which gave hint that many teachers would disobey the judge's order.

"We're not afraid of going to jail, and all we're asking you, the community, for now, is your support," said Jones, prior to attending a news conference and rally at the IEA headquarters in the Meadows.

At great issue in the new contract sought by IEA is the 11 percent pay increase in jobs ranging from $9,500 to $19,500 per school year. Any benefits teachers seek at nearly equal issue as money would provide for limitation of class size; more teaching preparation time; shorter length of work day and reimbursement for personal purchases of class supplies and equipment.

A week before school was scheduled to open the first Tuesday in this month, bargaining talks were stalled when negotiators for both sides reportedly were only $50 apart on proposals for beginning teachers. School board representatives were proposing $10,700 and the teachers' negotiators, $10,750.

Although speculation began that picketing activities might resume at Judge Huse's order to delay fine payments Wednesday, IEA representatives claimed picket lines had stopped. Still, there are no plans to return to class until a favorable settlement is reached organization members have vowed.
